Todd Kolstad, founder and CEO of Montana Technical Solutions, announced today that his company will be opening their second Montana division in the Flathead Valley this summer. Mr. Kolstad told a gathering of the Flathead Technology Roundtable that Flathead County had the right philosophy of collaboration and forward thinking to entice him to the area.

MTS provides a complete Network Management Solution for Businesses, City & County Government, and School Districts. They strive to add value for their clients by increasing the level of technology their clients can access through fierce price negotiation and combining group purchases of technology solutions from national suppliers. They provide full integration of security systems and other IT solutions for local units of government and law enforcement while working on behalf of school districts to secure the best software and hardware and the best price for Montana students.

MTS is the Dell representative for Montana and Idaho and their facilities in the Flathead will include both retail and warranty repair spaces for Dell products. MTS will employ approximately 10 people in the tech and customer service area, up to 20 in field repair and installation and likely hire two new sales people in the next twelve months as they gear up to serve western Montana and Idaho.
